GENERAL DE WET.

He is retreating, after reading of the cowardice and selfishness of Kruger, and Leyds, to hear of Botha taking action against these alleged patriots to recover state monies which they stole, in order that they may be returned to the men who not only fought for their country, but actually created the wealth these two men have stolen. General De Wet is another brave and honest man who, Englishmen have considered it an honor to shake hands with, and the book he has just issued shews the noble traits of the man. The most interesting thing about General De Wet's book on the Boer War is the biography that may be picked out of it by a careful reader. The last thing De Wet seems to be thinking is to exploit himself; but he cannot hide the fact that he is by far the biggest figure in the scenes he is describing. The thing second in interest is the extraordinary constitution of the Boer army, which explains at once the tenacity of the war and the marvellous achievements of its last commander.

It was the most democratic army of modern times and realized Napoleon's boast that every soldier carried a marshal's baton in his knapsack. The promotions in it were remarkable, as older commanders were removed by death and capture, but none was so remarkable as that of De Wet. He left his farm to enter the war as a private, was elected vice-commandant on the verge of hostilities, and took command of 600 men by reason of the illness of the commandant a few days before the battle in which he saw action for the first time in his life. Six weeks later he was made commander of the brigade, and began the meteoric career which left him with the reputation of the last genius of the time.

Make Weak Hearts Strong.
Make Shaky Nerves Firm.

They are a sure Cure for Nervousness, Sleeplessness, Loss of Energy, Brain Fag, After Effects of La Grippe, Palpitation of the Heart, Anemia, General Debility and all troubles arising from a run down system.

They regulate the heart's action and invigorate the nerves.

This is what they have done for others! They will do the same for you.

GREAT RELIEF.

I have taken Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills for palpitation of the heart and shakiness of nerves, and for both troubles have found great relief.—Miss W. Ackert, Ingersoll, Ont.

FEELS SPLENDID NOW.

Before taking Milburn's Heart and Nerve Pills I was all run down, could not sleep at night and was terribly troubled with my heart. Since taking them I feel splendid. I sleep well at night and my heart does not trouble me at all. They have done me a world of good.—Jas. H. Macleod, Hartsville, P.E.I.

Yours very sincerely that he had received a very nice surprise at a dinner party with numerous friends. But hot up the heels of this news comes an announcement that he is married. Mrs. Boyce, who was in Sudbury last Friday receiving a cable from her brother, Captain MacLean, that the ceremony had taken place that day.

Mrs. MacLean was Miss Ida Knight, a beautiful and winsome young English girl, who Harold had met in the halcyon days of his boyhood in England, the acquaintance being renewed when he visited the old country after the war.

Mrs. MacLean had patted the young soldier on the back and now Venus smiled upon him. The pair became engaged and the dashing Canadian officer, who had been promised promotion only waited the tardy circumlocution of the mouldy war office, for his cue for leading his lovely bride to the alter.
